Horn Creek Water Treatment Plant Project

June 18, 2010

The last week we pressure tested and disinfected the 12" water line from Horn Creek to town. Then we took coliform samples to make sure the disinfection process worked or not. Ryan and Rudy installed sheetrock on the ceilings in the small rooms. Scott re-installed manholes and backfilled. Derek has been busy installing plumbing and instrumentation. Mark has been installing piping and helping with the pressure testing and disinfection process. Then,,,PCJWSA showed up and painted the ceilings and started constructing the generator building.

It now looks like our initial startup will begin July 12, 2010 and if all goes right, we'll be producing clean water by late August.

Please check out the great pictures. They say more about what's happening than my words can.

Until next time, Cheers!
