Horn Creek Water Treatment Plant Project

May 21, 2010

Now that we have a roof on, there are all sorts of activity going on, including equipment installation, painting, below ground tank work and all kinds of carpentry. And, a big welcome back to Scott!

After several months in storage, a lot of the electrical panels and motor control centers finally made their way to the site where Mark, Mike and Chris spend a bunch of time getting them set up and in place. Mike and Chris were also able to get lights hung, fans installed and conduit ran.

The carpenters installed the HardiShingle on both gable ends and started on the TJI trusses inside above the small rooms. PCJWSA continued painting floors, walls and doors. The below ground tanks are a few steps closer to being ready for paint. Unfortunately, a big shipment of paint that came in was outdated and had to be sent back.

Next week will continue with equipment installation, including the Pall filtration equipment! Yeah!

Until next time, Cheers!
